

There should be an active consent list for consumers to accept telemarketing calls. Consumers could choose the businesses they wished to accept telemarketing calls from or could choose none at all.